A TRIPLE MURDER.

A Crime Without a Parallel Just Discovered.

ONE TRAGEDY AFTER ANOTHER.

A Man and His Little Daughter Found Dead, His Wife Nearly Dead, and Her Mother Now in a Very Critical Condition—One of the Most Horrible Crimes Ever Heard Of.

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 27.—A horrible triple murder and suicide was discovered at noon yesterday in the upper flat of a tenement building at 31 Tainter street. Henry C. Varnum and his little daughter Florence were found dead, his wife was nearly when discovered and died on the way to the hospital, and Mrs. Wright, the mother of Mrs. Varnum, now lies at the hospital in a critical condition, unable as yet to talk or indicate in any way the story of the awful event.

Henry C. Varnum came to this city from Haron, Vt., in September and sought employment as a machinist which he found in the shop of L. L. Polard. He then hired the tenement on Tainter street and sent for his family, which consisted of his wife, an adopted daughter, Florence, and his wife's mother, Mrs. Wright. The family lived quietly and to all appearance happily. Mrs. Varnum was a regular attendant at Hope Congregational church where she sang in the choir. Her husband and little daughter often accompanied her. Mrs. Varnum was not present at any of the church services Sunday and the pastor, Rev. E. W. Phillips, remarked the absence and expressed some surprise, saying that Mrs. Varnum was not the sort of a woman to stay at home because it was cold.

Mr. Phillips had occasion to make a call on Christy street near Tainter, and, in passing, thought he would see if anything was wrong. He wrong the Varnum bell, but received no answer, and called up the lower tenement, and later the occupant of the middle dwelling, Mrs. F. E. Hall, who said she had not heard anything from the Varnums and that she felt nervous about them. She also said that the door up stairs was open. Mr. Phillips went up stairs immediately and entered the apartments through the parlor. The rooms were very cold and the furniture undisturbed.

He passed through the parlor into the back parlor and then to the back kitchen. He then pushed open the door of the bed room leading off from the kitchen and then a terrible sight met his eyes. Lying on the bed, covered with blood, was Mr. Varnum and his wife. The man was quite dead, but the woman was breathing heavily. In a cot in the corner of the room lay the child, turned over on her face, also dead. Mr. Phillips waited to see no more, but rushed down stairs to the office of the Knowles Loom works where he telephoned for the police. When the police arrived the mother, Mrs. Wright, was discovered in an adjoining room. She was conscious but not able to speak, though she understood what was said to her and made several ineffectual attempts to articulate. The bodies of the man and child were removed by an undertaker and the two women were carried to the hospital.

The younger woman died just as the ambulance stopped at the hospital doors.

Mrs. Wright is still unable to speak, but she may live. She is about eighty years of age.

The weapon with which the awful deed was committed was an iron door-hanger, an iron strap about fifteen inches long, headed by a cylindrical knob. The instrument weighed fully four pounds. Varnum himself was killed by a stab from a knife, identified as his own. He was cut in the region of the heart. There were no other marks upon his body.

CENTENARIAN'S FUNERAL.

A Colored Woman That Lived One Hundred and Twelve Years.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—The funeral of a colored centenarian occurred Sunday in this city—Sallie Jackson. While there is no official record of her birth, the approximate time is determined by the fact the old lady was able to recall incidents of the war of 1812, and also the fact that she was at that time twenty-four years of age.

She was born in Virginia and was the slave of Dr. Nelson, who lived near Yorktown. Her freedom was purchased by her son, W. W. Jackson, and she then went to live with him in Richmond. In 1868 she came to this city and has made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Jackson had thirteen children, forty-nine grandchildren, thirty-four great-grandchildren and five great-great-grandchildren. Her oldest child was seventy years old, and her oldest grandchild fifty.

RESPONSIBILITY FIXED.

Coroner's Jury's Verdict on a Recent Railroad Wreck.

ST. PAUL, Dec. 27.—The coroner's jury in the Nelson (Minn.) railroad accident inquest was formally discharged and the verdict finally made public. It charged W. F. Mullany and W. A. Neckley, engineer and conductor, with gross neglect in failing to keep control of the first section of train No. 16, and they alone are held responsible by the jury for the death of seven persons and the injury of five.

Conductor Roche, of the wrecked train, is considered equally guilty with the above named for leaving his train on the main track when a regular was overdue.

REV. FATHER M'GLYNN.

He Once More Dons Priestly Robes and Talks to His People.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—An immense crowd thronged Cooper union Sunday evening to hear Dr. Edward McGlynn deliver his Sunday lecture. The newly rehabilitated priest received an ovation when he made his appearance upon the platform. In the course of his address Dr. McGlynn said:

"My dear friends, I feel sure that I should disappoint a most reasonable expectation, were I to proceed forthwith upon tonight on last Sunday. Something has happened that, by your rapturous applause occasioned by my merely hinting at it, you have shown to be a matter of no small importance to you, and it would be worse than impertinent in me to be silent or appear to deny that it was of paramount importance to me. It was an injustice to you not to note the fact that something happened some years ago that were thought a bitter change in my life.

"As I have said before, I was not born to be an agitator. I was born to be a preacher, to assuage the sorrows and to bless the pathway of my fellow men. I say it humbly, that I believe I was called to be a priest in Christ's church. But it must be remembered that it is a post of fearful responsibility, and therefore it is not in a spirit of boastfulness that I say that I believe myself to be providentially returned to my appointed place. And you can readily believe that it was a great sorrow to me to be thrust from an altar so dear to me.

"Those of you who know me best, know that it was never my wish to leave those altars, but when I came on a platform to speak as a citizen, as a man to men, whether that platform was the tail of a cart or the head of a barrel, I still was a priest of Christ and still considered myself worthy to preach the 'Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man.'

"Today will long be memorable to me. I have again, today, stood before the altar so dear to me, and have offered up there the holy incense of communion. Today, I, who was excommunicated, have communicated.

"I have received from my own hands, reverently, the body and blood of the Lord, not unmindful of the divine injunction 'He who would partake of this cup, let him purge himself,' and I believe that there is not one of you who would deem me capable of so partaking, unless my conscience was at rest. I have been restored to those altars, to my intense joy, and to yours, and I thank you for the wonderful and joyful appreciation you have shown of the great happiness that has just come to me."

OUR LIBERALITY.

It is Shown by the Contributions to Russian Famine Sufferers.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—In view of the fact that the Russian famine has now so nearly ended that the imperial authorities report a continuance of active foreign efforts unnecessary, the national relief committee of the United States has prepared a statement showing what the people of this country have done for the sufferers.

The statement points out in detail what the different sections of the country, beginning with the northwest, contributed. The efforts of individuals, commercial bodies, railroad and steamship companies are mentioned, and high praise is accorded Clara Barton, of the Red Cross, for her work in arousing the general public, especially the state officers and people of Iowa, to the activity which resulted in sending to Russia a ship freighted with stores from the corn producing states.

The work of the national committee is fully set forth, and also the important action taken by the New York chamber of commerce. It is difficult to determine the amount of money sent directly to Russia, but it doubtless exceeded $100,000, of which $38,280 should be credited to the New York chamber of commerce; $5,000 and over to the Iowa commission; $7,000 to Russian settlers in Nebraska; $3,481 to the South Dakota commission; and over $10,000 to the American National Red Cross.

CANADA'S TRADE.

An Exposition of Her Exports and Imports.

OTTAWA, Dec. 27.—The statements of exports of the Dominion for November are not so favorable as for some recent months. The total exports were $11,829,924, as compared with $16,203,075 in November last year. The falling off is principally in agricultural products. Taking the five months of the fiscal year, however, the outlook is still encouraging, the total exports of goods, the produce of Canada, showing an increase of $5,256,942.

The produce of other countries, however, show a decided decrease, being $3,251,793, which is wholly in agricultural products. This shows that the amount of American grain which found an outlet through Canada this year was considerably less than last year.

The value of goods entered for consumption in November was $9,707,979, an increase of $1,378,269 over last November. For the five months the total entered for consumption was $32,066,414, an increase of $3,572,277 over the same period last year.

The amount of duty collected for November was $1,580,873, and for the five months $8,926,818, showing an increase of $814,088.

Crossing the Mississippi on Ice.

DAVENPORT, Ia., Dec. 27.—In exposed places the mercury dropped to 12 degrees below zero yesterday. In the afternoon persons were crossing the Mississippi on foot, and now the ice bridge will hold teams.

GREAT DISCOVERY.

Epilepsy a Disease Than Can Be Cured.

HOW IT CAN BE TREATED

An Interesting Paper Read Before the County Medical Society of New York by Dr. Paul Gibier, President of the New York Bacteriological Society.

New York, Dec. 27.—Dr. Paul Gibier, president of the New York Bacteriological society, and director of the Pasteur institute, read an interesting and important paper before the medical society of the county of New York, at the Academy of Medicine on West Forty-third street last night, on "A New Agent in the Treatment of Epilepsy."

In it he tells of the results of a scientific treatment which he has applied to a class of patients the first time in this country or elsewhere. The treatment is in line with that which has excited interest in scientific medical circles in France and is a step in advance of the method employed in a somewhat similar treatment in Paris. The material used is prepared from the vital organs of sheep after it has undergone certain treatment in the laboratory of the Pasteur institute. The injections were made daily in each side of the patient just above the hip bone.

Dr. Gibier said that some two years ago an act was published in the French medical journals of an epileptic patient, treated at the Pasteur institute in Paris, for the bite of a mad dog, who was cured of his epilepsy by the anti-rabic injections. More recently other accounts of the cure of epileptics by injections of the rabic virus had been published and public interest had been aroused in the new treatment. Before an opportunity was offered to competent critics to examine the remedy or the statement of patients who were supposed to be cured, and also without waiting for the test of time as to the reliability of the treatment, it was widely accepted and more than one hypothesis of its mode of action was proposed.

Dr. Gibier said that one observation at least was established, and that was that some patients had their seizures checked, at least temporarily, after the injection of the rabic virus. After some remarks upon the rationale of the cure and the normal functions of the nervous system restored, Dr. Gibier said that he had been enabled by the courtesy of Charles I. Dana, visiting physician at Bellevue hospital, to make a number of observations, extending over six months, of the effect of anti-rabic inoculations upon persons afflicted with epilepsy. He said that one of the patients furnished him with an observation which seemed to show that as far as a cure for epilepsy is concerned, we can not expect much from the Pasteur injections.

The patient, a man of thirty-two years, an epileptic from infancy, had been treated with the anti-rabic injections for eighteen days in the intensive form, and not only did the epileptic convulsions continue but they increased in number. Dr. Gibier said he was not surprised at this failure inasmuch as he had learned indirectly that the cause of the untimely announcement of the cure of epilepsy by the anti-rabic inoculations was due to the fact that this disease had been temporarily stopped during and after the inoculations in two young epileptics who had been bitten by mad dogs and treated at the Pasteur institute in Paris.

Dr. Gibier ascertained that in the injections given at the Pasteur institute, by which temporary relief seemed to have been afforded to some epileptic patients, the rabic virus was not injected alone, but in association with a large amount of nervous substance and therefore it occurred to him that if any benefit had been derived from these injections it might be attributed to the nervous matter and not to the contained virus.

Consequently he determined to test the treatment with the injection of extract gray nervous substance, which he called nervine. The fluid was prepared according to the strictest rules of bacteriology, and, in order to avoid fatal accidents, it was made perfectly a septic. The doctor said that the idea of the new treatment was derived from the method proposed by Dr. Brown-Sequard, who thinks that fluids extracted from young and healthy organs can give to those which are abnormal and senile the attributes of youth and health.

Dr. Gibier then gave an account of the results he had obtained with the use of his nervine in cases of epilepsy. In reference to the case of a young Frenchman, who belongs to a family with an epileptic history, Dr. Gibier said: "Before being subjected to this treatment he was almost continually in a state of epileptic vertigo, losing consciousness momentarily several times daily. He had a persistent headache, and very severe at least once weekly. His memory and his mental powers were decreasing steadily, and his face had a very idiotic expression. He had been subjected to various forms of treatment without much improvement. Under the influence of the injections, administered five times weekly and without any other remedy, his condition improved remarkably. The severe attacks diminished in number and gravity. He recovered consciousness very rapidly after the seizures, without persistent headache, and his memory became normal. The idiotic expression disappeared and he was more intelligent."

"One of the most interesting results was the disappearance of vertigo which is only present when the treatment is interrupted. Instead of four or five violent attacks in the period of a month, he was one month and a half without any symptoms of morbus sacer. He is receiving now only two injections of six cubic centimeters weekly, and for two months his improvement has been most satisfactory.

"I tried also and exclusively the injection in a case of idiocy complicated with epilepsy in a boy of thirteen years. After a few days the attacks were reduced from two, three and four daily to one in two or three days, or to one or two daily which were milder, and instead of remaining comatose for several hours, or even one, every day, the patient rallied shortly after each attack. His relatives assert that he is more intelligent and has a better temper than before the treatment."

"In two other cases, men, treated in conjunction with Dr. Dana, the improvements of the general condition was noticeable, and the patients realized it so thoroughly that at such inconvenience they do not hesitate to attend several times weekly to receive the painless injections."

Dr. Gibier stated that he had seen a case in which the injections of anti-rabic fluid were followed by unsatisfactory results. Subsequently the same patient improved when subjected to the injections of nerve extract. In order to test the influence of suggestion in the results derived from the injections, he had substituted other substances without the knowledge of the patients, but was obliged to return to the former fluid in consequence of the reappearance of the paroxysmal phenomena.

In conclusion, the doctor said: "According to my opinion, epilepsy must be caused by a predisposition of the organism, and especially of the nervous centers, to retain a poison, a particular lucinae, which, when it has accumulated to a certain degree produces the spasms and convulsions of morbus comitialis. The attacks commence when the nerve cells have their resistance overwhelmed by the power of the toxine, the molecular vibrations of which are antagonistic to the physiological vibration of the nervous molecules. The introduction into the system of a substance, which is a natural and all-prepared aliment for the nerve cells, gives the latter a new life, a tonic which enables them to resist the attacks of the irritating chemical substance which is elaborated and stored in their vicinity, and thus the imminent attack is postponed to a later date, or suppressed."

"Now, if we restrict the patient to a diet which shall supply the organism with the minimum of plomaines, that is to say of toxines elaborated in the intestine, if this virus is kept clean whilst the activity of secretion of the liver and of the kidneys is properly stimulated; and, lastly, if we prescribe some sedatives and anti-spasmodics discriminatively while we give the injections of nervine I am confident that the therapeutic of essential epilepsy will be advanced. Before concluding I wish to remark that while I do not think epilepsy can be cured in all cases by the nervous transfusion, I am inclined to believe that it may improve the condition of the afflicted even when used without any other treatment. It may help us in relieving the patients from the inconveniences of bromide. It will certainly add to the benefit derivable from other agents."

BLAINE IMPROVING.

The Ex-Secretary of State is Much Better.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Mr. Blaine continues to get along quite as well as could be expected. He passed a fairly good day and is as well as he was yesterday, though the little excitement which was unavoidable on account of Sunday being Christmas, naturally resulted in a little more exertion than was good for him.

At the house this morning everything was as quiet as if the Blaine residence were out in the suburbs of the city instead of within a stone's throw of the White House. Only a very few callers came to inquire about Mr. Blaine's health yesterday. The family are in much better spirits now that Mr. Blaine has passed a whole week without the recurrence of the severe attack whose renewal is dreaded. They moved about the house freely yesterday and passed some time attending to letters and other matters.

GOOD MAN GONE WRONG.

His Home Was Not Pleasant and He Took to Drink.

OMAHA, Dec. 27.—Another good man seems to have gone wrong, this time in the person of Edward Daniels, a prominent lawyer and loan and collection agent. He left home the 15th of October, but it did not develop until Sunday that he had gone for good. He had in his possession big collections for New York and Chicago firms, the Estey & Camp Organ company of Chicago being one of the largest losers by his disappearance.

His home life was not pleasant and recently he took to drink. He was a Republican politician of prominence and took part in the recent campaign as a stump speaker.

Lake Steamer Encounters Heavy Weather.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—The steamer Saratoga, Captain Leighton, of the Ward line, came into port yesterday morning coated with ice from the water line to the smoke funnel. The Saratoga left Havana Thursday. She encountered stormy weather and very heavy seas throughout the voyage and reported last night as one of the worst ever experienced along the coast. No damage, however, was done to the vessel, although it seemed several times as though boats would be swept away.

Over Half Insured.

SLATER, Mo., Dec. 27.—Fire destroyed $10,000 worth of property yesterday, the insurance being $65,000. The heaviest losers are: A. L. Haas and A. L. Siber, both dealers in dry goods.

DOWN IN THE WATER.

Ten People Meet a Sudden Death in the Deep.

SAILING VESSEL CAPSIZED.

Merry-Makers Have Their Pleasures Cut Short by a Sudden Storm—Thirteen Rescued but Ten Perish—The Names of the Unfortunate People Unknown.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Dec. 27.—A sad accident occurred here yesterday to a party of merry-makers, resulting in the death of ten of them. The owner of a yacht made up a party of his friends to take a sail and twenty-three persons accepted the invitation. All went well and everybody on board were enjoying themselves until the mouth of the harbor was reached.

Here a severe squall struck the yacht, and, before any preparation could be made to meet it, the vessel capsized. The squall passed away as quickly as it had come, and vessels in the vicinity bore down to the upturned craft. They succeeded in picking up thirteen persons who were struggling in the water, but ten of the party were not seen after the yacht turned over.

GENERAL SNOWDEN'S REPORT.

Comments on the Calling Out of the Troops to Homestead.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 27.—Major General Snowden, division commander of the national guard, has submitted his annual report to the adjutant general. Considerable space is devoted to the Homestead affair. He reviews the calling out of the troops, the concentration near the scene of the trouble and the success of the movement. General Snowden says:

"There is no doubt that the presence of so large a force so startling in its sudden and unexpected appearance preserved that part of the state, perhaps the country at large, from disturbances such as we have not heretofore witnessed and the First brigade contributed its full share."

Referring to the service at Homestead, he says:

"The good faith of the amalgamated association might well be doubted. While all open resistance ceased, their scouts and forces drawn in, the censorship of the press stopped, and the false government erected by them, came to an end, yet for some time they kept up their system of intimidation. Large crowds assembled suddenly and as promptly dispersed, but not without abuse and insult heaped upon the soldiery. These affronts were borne with forbearance and such discretion, self-possession and strict obedience to order by so great a number of troops are worthy of the highest praise."

The major general does not discuss events prior to his arrival at Homestead, but doubts if the sheriff could have raised a posse equal in number or physique equal to the opposition. The smaller force sent there would have invited a conflict and ended in that which the governor did in the first place, sending overwhelming numbers. Of the Iams episode he says:

"The admirable military spirit displayed by all the troops—1,815 in number—was kept up throughout except by one man—Iams, of the Tenth. The attempted assassination of Mr. Frick led to great excitement and tumult in Pittsburg and some apprehension in camp. Guards were doubled, and Colonel Hawkins, in particular, was notified to be on the alert. Iams jumped up and called for 'Three cheers for the man who killed Frick.'"

"Mr. Frick was no more to the troops than any other reputable citizen, but the act was done in sympathy with riot and anarchy. In the state of war then prevailing, as since laid down by the chief justice, Iams' act was mutiny and treason, and Colonel Streator would have been justified in using measures, if necessary, upon the spot. In fact, an officer failing to repress mutiny is liable to severe penalties. Iams would not explain or apologize for his conduct."

"In face of imperative necessity to enforce discipline, which seemed to admit no delay for a court martial which might have put on Iams the most extreme sentence, and after consultation with Colonel Hawkins Colonel Streator imposed upon the man a penalty of which the severity has been greatly over-stated. If the punishment, although often inflicted in war, may be said to be unusual, the circumstances were extraordinary. Now, that it is proper to express an opinion, I have no hesitancy in saying that Iams was punished according to the customs of war and no more than he deserved."

"A fire is no more dangerous in a powder magazine than a mutineer or traitor in the ranks. It was necessary to get him out of the camp at once, for his presence might lead to open sympathy or perhaps opposition to his confinement. It is a source of great gratification to know that the course pursued by Colonel Streator and Colonel Hawkins have been fully vindicated in a court of law and that the legality of the division commander's order was sustained by the honorable judge who tried the case, strangely enough being the first one tried out of all those resulting from an event which involved riot, murder and treason."

Blaine's Condition.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—At 9 o'clock Monday evening Mr. Blaine was resting comfortably and the family at that hour expressed the belief that he would pass an other restful night. At the same hour Mr. Blaine's physician stated that his patient was so much improved that he did not expect to pay him another visit during the night.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For Kentucky—Fair; north winds; slightly colder in eastern and central portions.

We are glad that Brother Davis' friends have put him on the ground floor, and trust he will be able to stay there.

CONGRESSMAN OWEN SCOTT reasons that "it would cost no more to collect $1.25 on whisky than it does to collect 90 cents." He reasons well, says the St. Louis Republic. It is a great deal cheaper to raise the money for pensions by increasing the whisky tax than by putting the tax back on sugar. A single item in the cost of restoring the sugar duty would be the loss of the next Congress.

HAVING imitated the Ledger in getting out an eight-page holiday edition, and having copied the Ledger's style of make-up, we now look for our afternoon contemporary to adopt steam and gas as motive and illuminant. And then if he will get an office on the ground floor he will have copied about all the superior advantages possessed by the Ledger—except the "know how." That he can never hope to attain.—Public Ledger.

Some people have short memories, and the editor of the Ledger is one of them. The people of this city haven't forgotten how he spent weeks and weeks a few years ago and wasted paper and ink prating against the BULLETIN's "pewter plates." Now, he has adopted them and is imitating the BULLETIN's make-up. Nobody imitates but the BULLETIN, however, in Brother Davis' mind.

There was nothing original in the Ledger's style of make-up about which he talks so much. The Lexington Leader has used it for weeks, and there's where the P. L. most likely caught on to it.

The BULLETIN's holiday edition was so far superior to the Ledger's in every way that it would be absurd to class it as an "imitation."

As for the "know how" of any one his success is the best test of that. The BULLETIN has never been compelled to suspend.

Out With It.

The Covington Commonwealth published a special from Frankfort Saturday which stated: "There is said to be a bomb-shell of large proportions prepared with fuse, and ready to light with an explosion timed on or about the second day of January in State government circles. "One of the State institutions is affected, and 'tis said that the lax manner of its management for the past few years has resulted in serious leaks, if nothing worse."

"The matter will be thoroughly sifted after the holidays, and some heads will undoubtedly be severed from the trunk that supplies the sapient nourishment at the public crib."

For Life.

The trial of Tom Collins, one of the C. and O. train robbers at Huntington, resulted in his conviction for the murder of the young German Teck, and the jury fixed his punishment at imprisonment in the penitentiary for life. Judge Harvey instructed the jury that if they were satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt that Collins had conspired to rob the train, and the killing of Teck was incidental to the carrying out of that purpose, they should find the prisoner guilty of murder in the first degree. He also instructed them that it mattered not whether Forgery or Collins fired the fatal shot, both were equally guilty.

The trial of Forgey, Collins' confederate, comes off this week.

Dr. J. C. Norris, formerly of Fern Leaf, has purchased a fine farm of 100 acres on the Dutch Ridge pike, six miles from Augusta.

The Fourth Street Christian Church of Covington has extended a unanimous call to Rev. George Darsie, Jr., of Uniontown, Pa., to succeed Rev. W. S. Priest. He is a relative of Rev. George Darsie, of Frankfort, and Rev. J. L. Darsie, of Versailles.

The stereopticon and musical entertainment given by Rev. C. C. Cline at the Christian Church last night was enjoyable throughout. The principal views displayed represented scenes in the life of Christ. The receipts amounted to about $50.

My stock of ladies' and gent's gold and filled watches, also diamond pins, rings, studs, neck chains and pendants, is very large. I have decided to cut the prices on them rather than carry them over the holidays. Now is your chance for a bargain, at Murphy's, the jeweler, successor to Hopper & Murphy.

DURING the fiscal year ending August 31, five and seven-tenths miles of sewers were added to Louisville's system at a cost of $250,000. The total mileage of sewers in the city is sixty-two, which has cost $2,300,000. The new street improvements made were granite, two and three-tenths miles; vitrified brick, one and one-fifth miles; macadam, one and two-fifth miles.

MISS LIZZIE SMITH entertained a number of friends at a delightful party given at her home in the West End, Christmas night. The evening was spent in various yuletide pastimes, and at about 11 o'clock the guests sat down to quite an elegant supper, shortly afterwards taking leave of the pleasant hostess and wending their way homeward in the bright, crisp, moonlight night, happier for having been there.

PUBLIC OPINION the eclectic weekly of Washington, D. C., which has made a feature of offering liberal cash prizes for the best essays on prominent topics, has just announced three cash prizes of $150, $100 and $50, respectively, for the best three essays upon the question "What, if any, changes in the present immigration laws are expedient?" The contest is open to any one and full particulars may be had by addressing Public Opinion, Washington, D. C.

REV. C. S. LUCAS closed his pastorate at the Christian Church Sunday night. A large crowd was present to hear his farewell sermon. During the two years and a half he had charge of the church he always commanded large audiences, and there is sincere regret over his departure. He is untiring in his work in the Master's cause, and the church here was greatly benefited in every way and built up during his stay. Brother Lucas left yesterday for Allegheny, Pa., to attend a reception to be tendered him by his church next Thursday from 1 to 10 p. m. He will hold a protracted meeting, make arrangements to remove his family and then return here for them the latter part of January.

"OUR IRISH NEIGHBOR" packed Harris' Theatre. In the evening hundreds were turned away, all the seats having been sold before the opening of the theatre. The play is light and frivolous, abounding with catchy songs and sharp wit, held together by enough plot to make it interesting. The humor of the comedy is not of the guide-post order, but the kind which slowly warms itself into one's good nature, and after doing so it stays there. It is silent wit. The puns are bright, new and sharp, and have a piquancy that is like a sea breeze compared to the cyclone humor of other comedies. Laughter was continual, and the exceedingly funny climaxes won for the clever company encores and curtain calls. As a singing company undoubtedly this is the best that has ever appeared at this house.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

Duke Hill.

A dispatch from Lexington announcing the death of Duke Hill was received by his relatives on Sunday. He had been in declining health over a year and was sent to the asylum three weeks ago in hopes that his disease, which turned out to be softening of the brain, might be overcome, but he got no relief and died on Sunday, at noon. He was the oldest son of the late Charles B. Hill and was about thirty-nine years of age. His remains were brought in last night under charge of Mr. George Griffin, the undertaker, and will be interred in the family lot in the cemetery on Wednesday morning. Funeral from his mother's home at the Hill House at 10 a. m. Friends of the family invited. Services by Rev. R. G. Patrick.

Mrs. LUCY KEITH received a little token of remembrance Christmas, accompanied by a card on which was written: "An old man is twice a child—but a sunny-hearted woman never gets old!"

MR. FRANK STAHL, of near Washington, lost two daughters last week, aged two and four years. They died of membranous croup. While the coffin containing one was being closed, the other passed away.

We have placed on sale 1,000 children and misses' gold rings, at the remarkable low price of 50, 60, 70, 80, 90 cents, $1, $1.10, $1.75 each. Solid gold. Do not miss seeing them at Hopper & Co.'s, the jewellers.

MISS MAYME KANE was awarded the prize of $5 in gold given by the "Bachelor Club" of the Knights of St. John for the best cake, at their entertainment at Neptune Hall last night. As Miss Kane's cake was adjudged the best over a number of other very good ones, it is a testimonial to her proficiency in the culinary art of which she may well feel proud.

THE attaches of the Red Corner were each remembered in a very handsome and substantial manner Christmas, with a suit of clothes as a testimonial from the proprietors for the prompt and faithful services in waiting on the big holiday trade the house enjoyed. It is not necessary to add that all highly appreciate their employers' kindness of heart and liberality.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN SMITH, of Forest avenue, have the sincere sympathy of their friends in the loss of their little son Forman Brooks Smith, who passed away yesterday morning at 2 o'clock, aged two years. Deceased suffered from a severe attack of diphtheria not long since, and died from paralysis, resulting from that disease. The funeral occurs this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the family residence. Services by Rev. D. P. Holt.

The Ladies.

The pleasant effect and perfect safety with which ladies use themay California liquid laxative Syrup of Figs, under all conditions, make it their favorite remedy. To get the true and genuine article, look for the name of the California Fig Syrup Co., printed near the bottom of the package.

REDUCING THE FORCE.

Land Office Clerks Must Seek Elsewhere for Employment.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—The statement of the commissioner of the general land office in his annual report to the effect that the work of that office is up to date, was regarded as a gratifying indication of the industry with which the business of the office had been attended to, but the sequel is not quite so agreeable because the land office officials are confronted with the problem of how to keep employed the present force of clerks. The current work is not sufficient to occupy the number of clerks now employed.

Two years ago the weekly issue of land patents was approximately 3,000 and this number has now fallen to less than 1,000 per week. It is expected that early in the new year there will be a reduction in the force of from 20 to 30 per cent. It is possible that some portion of the force may be transferred to other branches of the service, and so far nothing has been definitely determined either as to the extent of the decrease or as to the disposition of those whose services will not be dispensed with.

LONDON, Dec. 27.—Mrs. Lily Langtry, whose condition was reported yesterday as having favorably passed the critical point, has suffered a serious relapse.

LEADS TO KNOWLEDGE, and knowledge is power in all business as in other walks of life. The opportunity is here, and all you have to do is to grasp it, and it is yours. No doubt you have learned that The Old Reliable Red Corner Building is to be remodeled after the Holidays, and there is but one thing to do, and that is to get the large stock of CLOTHING out of the building before the workmen commence. This is no scheme to gull the consumer, but an actual fact, which has been put off as long as possible, and now they MUST go, at YOUR price, not ours. Our immense stock will be thrown on the market Saturday morning, and we will continue the cut prices until everything is closed out, from a Collar Button to the finest Suit or Overcoat sold in the city. Do not listen to anyone, but come and see for yourself.

WENT FOR TROUBLE

And They Got It—Ripley and Dover Negroes at War.

A Christmas Eve Festival Ends in a Bloody Fight, and Results in One Death.

A dance and festival given by the colored people of Dover at the home of Walter Green, Christmas Eve, broke up in a bloody fight.

Over fifty shots were fired, and several of the participants were wounded.

Ruth Fields, aged eighteen, was shot in the groin with a shotgun in the hands of Walter Green. Green was aiming at Charles Whaley.

Chas. Whaley was shot in the left arm and dangerously wounded. Charles Berry got three bullets in his body, two in the arm and one in the knee. Another, name unknown, was shot, but the extent of his injuries has not been learned.

A special says the trouble began over a trifling dispute between Green and Berry. Berry commenced to abuse Green, and then pulled his pistol and fired at him several times. Green ran in his house and got a shotgun and fired at Berry. The Fields woman ran to Berry's assistance and received the contents of the gun. After Green shot the woman he and all the other parties present fled. Berry and Whaley then emptied their revolvers at Green's house. After this they proceeded to smash every door and window in the house with rocks, demolishing it.

The town officers thought at first the firing was by some one celebrating Christmas, but as soon as the truth was learned Marshal Gibbons summoned a posse and undertook to arrest the drunken negroes, who ran, with the officers in hot pursuit, and all parties shooting.

The culprits escaped, but three of them were hit by the officers. Over fifty shots were exchanged altogether and the crack of the pistols and the crash of rock and breaking of windows aroused everybody. Dr. F. M. Smith, of Dover, and Dr. Pollitt, of Minerva, dressed the Fields woman's wounds and extracted some of the shot. Part of her clothing was imbedded in the wound. The woman was taken to her home in Ripley Sunday morning and died yesterday.

All the negroes shot are from Ripley. Mayor Curran has taken steps toward arresting all the guilty parties and bringing them to speedy justice. The damaged house belongs to Judge J. C. Grove.

Quick Work.

One year since George D. Reynolds lost his discharge papers from the army, and made application through John Walsh, pension attorney of this city, last Wednesday for a duplicate copy of the same. It was received from the authorities at Washington, D. C., yesterday.

WHAT a trade the Red Corner Clothing House must have had Saturday? The writer was on the street a good portion of the day and it looked like every other bundle seen was from the Red Corner. Captain Martin says they have been unable to wait on the trade since the commencement of their reduction sale, and that it will pay the trade to be patient and take their turn as they have big bargains for all.

THE Misses Young's school gave a charming Christmas entertainment Friday morning, consisting of songs, recitations and music, which were pleasingly rendered and highly appreciated by the invited guests. The recitation by Miss Roe, of her own composition, displayed much study and depth of feeling. The Misses Youngs have always been successful in their entertainments, and they fully deserve the confidence reposed in them by their patrons.

JOB WORK of All Kinds

Executed in the Best Manner.

The Market express which left this city at 1 p. m. for Reading, collided with the engine of a work train as the latter was crossing from the southbound to the northbound track near Pencoyd Station. The express was running at the rate of forty-five miles an hour when the work engine came in sight. It was only one hundred yards ahead and both Engineer Schwab and Fireman Smith, of the express, jumped. The express locomotive struck the tank of the work engine and was upset. The tank of the work engine was thrown over the boiler, sweeping the cab from the engine. Engineer Schwab sustained a badly sprained foot and was brought to Reading. Fireman Smith was severely injured and was removed to the city hospital in this city. The passengers of the express beyond a severe shaking up escaped uninjured with the exception of the three who received slight bruises.

The accident, it is said, was due to negligence on the part of the crew on the work train, who cross from the southbound to the northbound track without orders. The express train was given a clear track from West Falls to Bridgeport and was thirty minutes late at the time of the wreck and was running fast to make up time. The three passenger coaches of the express were badly broken by the collision, and the escape of the passengers from serious injury was most fortunate.

ROUGH WEATHER AT SEA.

The Steamer Sagle Has a Difficult Voyage Across the Ocean.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—The steamship Sagle, from Bremen, arrived at quarantine Sunday morning. Captain Ring reported that the trip was one of the roughest he has ever experienced. The weather, he said, was extremely cold and continued so until they were within sight of this port, when it became more moderate.

The steamer was completely coated with ice. The life boats on the starboard side were badly injured from the heavy seas and one of the ventilators was lifted from its position and bent out of shape.
